Mr. Loeb has been consulting to senior executive management for over 30 years, following a career as a senior corporate executive, where he held both technology strategy and line management responsibilities. From 2003 to 2008 Mr. Loeb was engaged exclusively by the Office of the Chief Technology Officer, IBM Federal, holding the title of Executive Consultant, Strategic Transformation, and providing technology strategy counsel to senior executives of the U.S. Department of Defense and Intelligence agencies.

Mr. Loeb has been a significant contributor to the creation or improvement of industry-leading, technology-based service businesses in domains as diverse as commercial software, healthcare, non-profit membership associations, publishing, insurance, direct marketing, credit decisioning and risk assessment, customer relationship management, venture capital startups, stock trading, employee selection, commercial printing management, transportation, travel booking, advertising, and defensive cybersecurity. He has also served as an expert witness in successful lawsuits over failed software development projects.

Prior to founding The MarTech Group, Mr. Loeb was employed for 17 years by the A.C. His innovations at Neodata were acknowledged to have completely transformed circulation management for the consumer magazine publishing industry. Mr. Loeb holds a B.S. degree in
